JON HOPPER

Director, Global Materials Supply

Jon Hopper is director Global Material Supply, VF Corporation. In this role, Jon leads one of the teams that manage and support VF Corporations material procurement processes. Supporting VF's footwear brands to ensure they're able to access materials in the most efficient and optimal manner. This incorporates assessing performance and potential of incumbent and new suppliers, supporting material quality assessments, negotiating prices and supporting brand material development needs.

In addition to these activities Jon works closely with VF's corporate and brand sustainability teams to activate their sustainable material visions. Ensuring road maps and plans are robust, achievable and brought to life in a commercially viable manner.

Prior to joining VF Corporation, Jon worked in various roles within the leather & chemical industries on both technical production and commercial sides of these businesses. Enabling him to bring 30 years of supply chain experience to his role at VF.

Jon holds an honoree Bachelor of Science degree in Leather Technology form Northampton University
